Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 05 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Colder than recently, with sunny spells. Showers in the west.

Today:
A chillier start than recently, as cold air moves in from the north. Cloud through the morning with some showers, mainly in the west, clearing into the afternoon, allowing for some sunny spells. Windy, feeling noticeably bitter along northern coasts. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:
Tonight will see patchy cloud in the west, and clear skies in the east. Widespread frost developing. Some rain and snow showers over Devon and Cornwall overnight. Feeling cold. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Tuesday:
A settled morning in the east, with wintry snow showers continuing in the west, before affecting the whole the region in the afternoon, clearing into the night. Cold throughout. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Cold into this period, with some widespread frosts but winds easing. Settled with some sunshine Wednesday, and remaining dry but turning cloudy Thursday, becoming warmer. A few showers on Friday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.